

Welcome to AA Intelligent Systems!

The last decade has seen a revolutionary change in how business processes can be improved and more tightly integrated using new technologies. Unfortunately, most of the available solutions require that systems currently deployed by organizations be completely replaced to take advantage of these new technologies. Additionally, the business processes and practices a software solution was based on might not be compatible with all organizations. Each organization has its own specific set of requirements, which requires its own specific set of solutions.

At A. A. Intelligent Systems, our mission is to provide our clientèle with customized, cost-effective and timely solutions that help them retain their investment in their current systems and keep their total cost of ownership to a minimum. We also pride ourselves in delivering total customer satisfaction by ensuring that the goals of introducing the new software are achieved by our clients. Our involvement does not stop after the deployment of the developed software, but continues through our availability to provide upgrades and technical support to enable our clients gain the maximum advantage from the provided solutions.
